

Beauty is a Timeless Journey

Costas Rombocos with the "Winged Victory of Samothrace" at Caesars Palace

Our magnificent new sculpture is a breathtaking life-sized replica of "The Winged Victory of Samothrace" in the Louvre Museum, depicting Nike, the Greek goddess of victory, which is thought to have been created around 200–190 BC. Numerous copies of the Louvre's "Winged Victory of Samothrace" exist in museums and galleries around the world; one of the best-known marble copies stands facing Las Vegas Boulevard outside at the fountains of Caesars Palace casino in Las Vegas. More than 39 million people visit Las Vegas each year and see the statue in front of Caesars Palace. The Winged Victory has been described as "the greatest masterpiece of Hellenistic sculpture," by H.W. Janson.

The regal beauty of this one-of-a-kind sculpture, made of a solid massive granite block from the farthest reaches of the world, will extend to 14 feet in height with its columbarium base (the only one of its kind in the world). It will rival that of the original marble sculpture, as it is a perfect, unblemished duplicate modeled by a very talented, international sculptor exclusively for the Shrine of Remembrance.

The new Olympia Legacy Gardens at the Shrine of Remembrance, with its beautiful perpetually landscaped grounds, will showcase the new Nike statue by the end of October. With this addition, the Shrine's gardens are destined to become a popular site for tourist to the Pikes Peak region, special family occasions, including Celebration of Life services together with the Shrine of Remembrance "America the Beautiful" Chapel. The Nike statue will provide an excellent backdrop for family photographs. It will also be a distinguished, one of a kind location to gather following military honors.

The perpetually maintained Olympia Gardens will offer memorialization to honor your family's legacy. When completed, the columbaria there will provide over 5000 niches.

Do you know what your legacy Is going to be?

Costas Rombocos, C.E.O. for the Shrine of Remembrance, who immigrated from Athens, Greece, to the U.S. in 1965, stated that it was his dream come true to provide an inspirational setting to honor the history of the Olympians and the beginning of the Olympic Games in Olympia, Greece, which is believed to have begun in 776 BC.
